

INSIDE SCOOP

Meet the young interiors dealers with a great eye for vintage finds.
By Naomi Smart

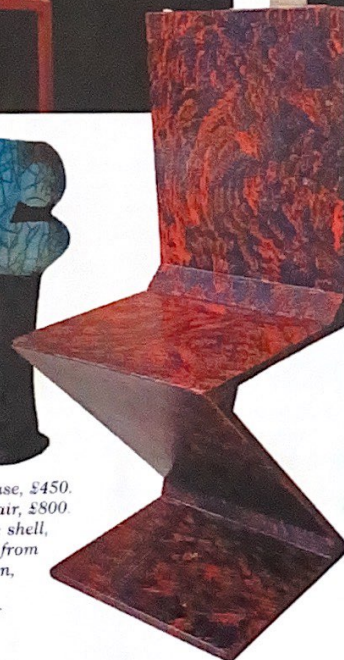

JERMAINE GALLACHER

WHO Jermaine Gallacher has been instilling his punk energy into wheeling and dealing offbeat objects and furniture since his days at Camberwell College of Arts.

WHERE TO FIND HIM Joining the early risers at Ardingly Antiques Fair, or at his showroom and bar attached to the Lant Street Wine merchants in south London's Borough. Serving as a gallery space and shop for new design talent and vintage finds, the place is a melting pot for the capital's design-loving underground.

WHAT TO EXPECT The unexpected. Find everything from postmodernist lamps to kinky chairs, and his own line of tables and candlesticks crafted in his signature zigzags. As he says, "I source what I like the look of. I'm not interested in names." What's more, Gallacher also takes interior design commissions, should you be looking for a bigger overhaul. Jermainegallacher.com

Above: vase, £450.
Right: chair, £800.
Far right: shell, £500. All from a selection, Jermaine Gallacher